INDIANA STATE SENTINEL.

The monopolising and grasping spirit of England is working its own destruction. Its manufacturing prospects has reached its zenith-while the mighty empire of France is just beginning to put forth those energies which, in acts of peace, are destined to eclipse Great Britain in as great a degree as did the arms of France, under her illustrious emperor, outshine the pretensions of England, whose military fame is but a minor reflection of the undying giory of Napoleon. That great man, in the hands of the Almighty, was the instrument by which the old despotic governments and aristocratic forms of Europe were broken up, and the way cleared for that advancement in the social intercourse of mankind, of which steam navigation is now the means. The vast debt accumulated by England in vainly striving to check the advancement of the human mind, is now the very instrument of preventing her own farther aggressions. Another outbreak from France, that great republican volcano, and the preparety of England, with its paper the preposterous ofigurchy of England, with its paper system, corn laws, debt and oppression, will cease to be.
